Who are we?

The Belgian Cockpit Association (BeCA) is the only recognised professional association representing airline pilots in Belgium. It is run by volunteer pilots, who work hard to defend the pilot profession and ensure the highest levels of safety.

BeCA & Unions

BeCA and unions are equally important for individual pilots and our profession. We both defend workers' interests, but we don't offer the same services and we have different, but complementary expertise. Unions defend workers, across all categories, but BeCA is the only association representing the collective interests of the whole pilot group.

What do we do?

- National: lobby stakeholders to ensure legislation takes into account our interests.
- Individual: assist members facing issues (licences, incident, etc.).
- Airline: collaborate with unions to address specific airline issues.

BeCA Services

- ✓ 24/7 Accident/Incident Hotline
- ✓ Loss of Licence & medical support
- ✓ Legal assistance
- ✓ Fiscal advice
- ✓ Regular & first-hand aviation news
- ✓ European & International representation

Union Services

- ✓ Representation of all personnel categories
- ✓ Handle national & company industrial issues
- ✓ Collective Labour Agreements negotiations
- ✓ Address individual issues
- ✓ Participation in works council and H&S committees

Hot Topics

BeCA covers a lot of topics, both in the technical / safety & industrial areas. Here are some of the current hot topics:

- Training issues
- Implementation of safe pilot fatigue rules
- Elaboration of cabin air quality standards
- Implementation of Safety Management System & Fatigue Risk Management System
- Promotion of Just Safety Culture
- Addressing pilot pension
- Fight against atypical forms of employment
- Defence of Belgium-based pilots concerned with US cargo operations in Europe

Stronger Together!

To be successful, we need to build up solidarity. Every Belgian pilot must join the BeCA family, to contribute to the future of our profession.
